A HIGHER FORM OF HUNTING

LANÍN

NEUQUÉN, ARGENTINA

The lodge is a beautiful stone and log house located within the ranch headquarters. This compound overlooks the expansive Huechulafquen lake providing some of the most amazing views one can find.

RED STAG LANÍN

Quintessential Patagonia Red Stag Hunting

After years of scouting many areas, we have recently secured for our guests what perhaps is one of the finest Red Stag hunting ranches in all of Argentina. This area in northwest Patagonia, at the foothills of the Lanín Volcano, has it all: a healthy deer population, a breathtaking mountain country interspersed with lakes and streams, and a beautiful historic ranch with an amazing view of the Huechulafquen lake, offering an ideal high-country sporting holiday.

The property is located in Junín de los Andes, very near the area where Red Deer from eastern Europe were first introduced in Patagonia, well more than one hundred years ago. The stags that populate this region are 100% wild free-roaming game that migrate through the terrain, even across the mountains into Chile and back.

As with our other properties, we practice strict herd management, harvesting only mature stags that are at the pinnacle or on the downslope of their reproductive life. We focus on these elder mountain stags that come from the high Cordillera into the lower valleys looking for hinds during the rut.

WHY CHOOSE RED STAG LANÍN?

RANCH HISTORY

The history of the estancia reaches back to almost a century. Back in the late 1800s, Richard Hosking Trannack emigrated from England to Argentina along with his wife and children, where they settled in the area of Zapala, Neuquen, and established a small ranch named El Manzano. Sadly, Richard and Marie died a few years after their arrival, so the two eldest sons took over the Estancia.

At the time, the eldest son, Don Arturo, was employed for a British company in charge of building a railway, where his job involved crossing the Andes by horse to collect money for the working staff. On one of his many crossings, Don Arturo came across a beautiful stretch of land by the Huechulafquen Lake, where he was able to establish contact with owners and purchase this very unique property.

Arturo and his family lived throughout the year in El Manzano, the original family home in Zapala, and the ranch by the lake became their summer residence. At that time there was no bridge over the Chimehuin River (the outflow of Lake Huechulafquen) so they would drive to the mouth of the Chimehuin River, leave their car under cover, and then travel the last stage of their journey on horseback.

The family lived in tents during those summer months, but eventually Don Arturo carefully chose the ideal spot to build the main house, where it still stands to this day. This was not a simple task, as it involved cutting into the mountain to create a plateau for the construction, the stone used in the construction was quarried on the farm.

When Don Arturo died, it was his daughter Marie who inherited the estancia. During her first years she struggled hard to make ends meet, but not long after she befriended a gentleman who used to hunt on a closeby property and who eventually offered to get the hunting rights of the ranch. After that, every March he and his friends would show up at the ranch for the Stag Roar. Marie and her husband looked forward to the hunting season as they thoroughly enjoyed hosting the hunters and sharing anecdotes, jokes, drinks and laughter. A fun time of the year!

Marie, a legendary lady in Patagonia, passed away some years ago. Now, her daughter Marisa (4th generation) and Chris (her husband) have taken over the running of this very special place where they continue the loving family legacy they have been blessed to receive.

THE HUNTING

The Red Stag Lanín hunting program is focused on providing the best hunts in one of the most beautiful areas of South America. Despite the fact that the official red deer season in Neuquén province goes from March to May, due to our current game management plan we only hunt during the pre-rut and only 1 week during peak rut, leaving the heard unmolested the rest of the year. We harvest a very limited amount of trophy Stags per season.

After a hot breakfast, you and your guide (1x1) will depart by 4 wheel drive truck to the designated hunting area for the day. Horses may also be used, if needed to access the more remote and highest parts of the ranch.

1-877-260-4332 | WWW.REDSTAGPATAGONIA.COM

Drives to the hunting area may be 10 to 30 minutes. Spotting and stalking is the most common way of hunting. Bowhunters- depending the time of the season, may also spend some time sitting over wallows and watering areas, waiting for stag to come in.

After a morning stalk, you will return to the lodge at midday. Each day you will return to the hills mid-afternoon for your evening hunt. We hunt until dark, but with enough light to get off the mountain safely. The hunting can be arranged to include hikes into high country looking for lonely big stags or sitting in a blind overlooking a wallow in the valleys or river bottoms. In addition to Stag hunting, pure wild european boar thrive as well in this area-a great addition to the Red Deer.
